The British Columbian.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 15, 1886.

Solomon once said "Though thou shouldst buy a fool in a mortar among wheat with a pestle, yet will not his foolishness depart from him." The editor of the Victoria Organ, published at Yale, would appear to afford a living illustration of the truth of the proverb. Last year he undertook to establish a newspaper on Williams Creek, with the object of advocating the political views of a certain party at Victoria in the interior of this country, and thereby, if possible, divide public opinion upon the great political issues of the day. That the enterprise did not succeed, either in a pecuniary or political sense must be sufficiently apparent from the fact that after dragging out a miserable existence, extending over a period of four months and eight days, the paper died from sheer want of material nutriment, and that too, in spite of the electro-magnetic aid drawn from the pockets of its virtual projectors and promoters in the neighboring Colony. That the editor of the Sentinel was convinced of the utter hopelessness of the experiment may fairly be inferred from the fact that after a vain attempt to dispose of his interest in the plant in Cariboo, Mr. Wallace sold out to his partner for the trifling sum of $600. The paper, in better hands, is now published twice a week, and is believed to be doing well. The reason is obvious enough. Claiming to represent the views of the miners, Mr. Wallace launched out in the most gross and scurrilous abuse of Governor Seymour and all his acts, and left no stone unturned in order to sow the seeds of discord and dissension amongst a people proverbially quiet and contented. The miners of Cariboo, very properly and in the most effective way, disowned and discarded the disreputable sheet. Smarting under the scathing castigations administered in these columns, our contemporary, on his return to Victoria, last fall, indulged in a good deal of that "Houdini of Ill-fight" style of bluster, so common with his countrymen, gave notice of the statement that the Sentinel had received electro-magnetic aid from Victoria, or defending themselves against an action for libel. Picturing the latter alternative, we invited our valiant antagonist to "come on." Legal proceedings were commenced; but, recollecting, doubtless, the old proverb,

"He who fights and runs away,
Will live to fight another day," he forgot to see his lawyer, and left suddenly for San Francisco! Thus ended the action for libel by which Mr. Wallace was at once to vindicate the character of the Sentinel, and teach us a salutary lesson. In his dispatch to the Secretary of State Governor Seymour incidentally alludes to the paper started in Cariboo by Mr. Wallace as follows: "A newspaper was started in that district especially to advocate union and oppose the local Government." The miners "more protested against the scurrility of their professed organ, and when extraordinary assistance was withdrawn it died from want of support." Although in making this statement His Excellency merely repeated what appeared to be no secret in these Colonies, and of the truth of which he doubtless possessed the most unexceptionable evidence—indeed no one will believe that a gentleman of His Excellency's character and position would make such a statement at a mere venture, or upon loose rumor—yet our Yale contemporary makes it the subject of a two column article, which, for coarse scurrility and recklessness of assertion cannot but disgust every respectable member of the community, and bring down upon its author that public reprobation and censure which such licentiousness seldom fails to begot. We would not, even if we had the time, follow our contemporary through all his disgusting Billingsgate; but we may be pardoned for alluding to one or two gross misstatements in which he indulges respecting himself and his journalistic career. He says "since we commenced our journalistic career in these Colonies we have published an independent newspaper, owned, controlled and directed by ourselves alone." Now, it is well known, and we presume Mr. Wallace, with all his brazen effrontery, will hardly venture to deny, that in the paper he published in Victoria Mr. Allen was a partner equal with himself, and that in the Sentinel Mr. Lambert was an equal partner with him! Further on he says: "During our whole career in connection with the Sentinel the subject of union was scarcely ever touched upon by us, and when it was, our remarks in regard to it were called forth in reply to the misrepresentations of the views of our fellow colonists on the subject, put forward by the Government organ at New Westminster, or by some Government supporter—the Government being then, as now, secretly opposed to union." In order to refute this we have only to refer to his "salutatory" article in the very first number of the paper, in which he lays down the subject of union as "one of the highest and noblest that can engage our attention." Glancing over his files we find the question of union repeatedly made the subject of leading articles, in which he was not replying to anything which had appeared in this journal upon the subject. Next we find him saying: "We can fearlessly assert that up to the last day of publication, the support extended to the paper by the public was steadily increasing." What a blunder! How does this agree with the subsequent act of seeking in vain for a purchaser in Cariboo, and selling out at such a sacrifice? But, altogether apart from any collateral evidence of this sort, we are in a position to state that the circulation and other patronage of the paper dwindled down to a very small compass indeed before its discontinuance. Our contemporary concludes his concatenation of falsehoods by a little clap-trap about the deep interest he has in the country—an interest which he declares to be far deeper than that of its Governor; and yet, in the same breath, he makes a boast of being the owner of no real estate in either Colony. It is true Mr. Wallace may be a very patriotic individual, whose interest must not be gauged by his possessions; yet the fact that he started out in the spring with his little two-penny-half-penny printing plant, with the avowed intention of proceeding to Big Bend, and should he not gain a foothold there, crossing the 49th parallel of latitude to the Boise country, would seem to forbid so charitable a conclusion. In concluding an article already drawn out to a much greater length than we intended, we would warn the people of Yale against seeming to support, or in any way sanction a sheet devoted to such unjustifiable and coarse abuse of the Governor, as to do so may have the effect of placing them in a false and unfavorable position. So far as the attack upon ourselves is concerned, we are not careful to reply to anything of the kind. The issue raised is one in which the public can have no possible interest. We know from comparing dates that the letter, the paternity of which our contemporary disclaims, could not have been written at Queneshmonth, from where it professed to come; and if it isn't his writing it bears so striking a resemblance to it that the mistake would be a very pardonable one. Yet it would take more than his blistering denial to convince either ourselves or the public that we were not correct in our surmise. Be that as it may we have no notion of being led into a controversy à la Victoria with a man of Mr. Wallace's character. It is long since we "nailed his ears to the wall of public opinion," and passers-by exclaimed "who lost the donkey?"

FROM THE INTERIOR.

The news from the various mining districts, although devoid of special interest, is, upon the whole, satisfactory. Respecting Canyon Creek the greatest confidence is still felt, in proof of which it may be stated that those more directly interested have undertaken to construct a pack trail to connect these mines with Queneshmonth, and that without any great delay in another part of the claim. A low trail leading to the five-mile post beyond Queneshmonth, and is nearly completed. There are 100 white men and 40 Chinamen in the diggings.

The mining operations on Williams and the other creeks of Cariboo continue to be prosecuted with satisfactory results. From Big Bend we are still without "big news." A gentleman writing from these mines says, "Things look a little better on McCulloch's Creek. One company of thirty men, about 25 miles up the creek, washed up last week 30 ounces, and for previous week $800. The discovery claim on that creek looks well. They (the discovery men) have run a tunnel and have also been ground sluicing in another part of the claim. I saw about 4 ounces of gold—large pieces, one weighing 20. They were picked up by the hands."

Mr. James Orr arrived from the Big Bend country on Monday. He, although unsuccessful himself, speaks well of the prospect of the mines on the Columbia River, and gives us his opinion that the Big Bend will turn out all right yet. He informs us that good digging have been found upon a stream called David river, emptying into Shuswap Lake, a little above Seymour, where as high as 70 cents to the pan have been obtained. Business is reported dull at Seymour.

FROM THE NORTH-WEST COAST.—The Telegraph Co.'s steamer Mumford, Capt. Coffin, arrived yesterday from the coast. She ascended the Skeena river 110 miles where she delivered her cargo. Captain Butler was conveying the freight about 100 miles higher up, to the point at which Mr. Conway would strike the river. A letter from Mr. Conway awaited them, which stated that he expected to reach the Skeena on the 10th inst. Capt. Coffin had a prosperous voyage. He passed the steamer Otter on Sunday, bound for Victoria. The Mumford leaves for Victoria to-day, and will return here in a few days to make another trip to Skeena.

BARNARD'S STAGES AND EXPRESS.—We see by a notice in the Cariboo Sentinel that Mr. Barnard, the enterprising Cariboo Expressman, has reduced the rate upon letters from Williams Creek to Victoria to 50 cents each, while the stage fare from the Creek to Yale has been reduced to $65. This is a liberal movement, and cannot fail to render Mr. Barnard's line of stages still more popular with the public.

FROM YALE.—The steamers Onward and Lillooet came in from Yale on Monday. The former having on board Cariboo and Big Bend expresses for Dietz & Nelson. The people of Yale had tendered a complimentary excursion to Capt. Irving, and it was arranged for the party to go down to Hope on Wednesday, but sickness in his family requiring Capt. Irving's presence at New Westminster, the affair was postponed.

FOR VICTORIA.—The steamer Alexandra left for Victoria yesterday morning. She is expected back on Friday.

FIREMEN'S PIC-NIC.—Capt. Irving having generously offered the free use of his steamer Reliance to the Fire Department for a pleasure excursion and picnic, a meeting of the Hyacks was held in their Hall last evening, when Capt. Irving's kind offer was accepted, and to-morrow week decided upon as the day. We shall be in a position to say more upon the subject on Saturday.
